Grain for Hogs on Pasture.

While the cost of producing pork may be reduced by the use of green feed, it is desirable to feed grain in addition. There is no time that grain can be so profitably fed to a hog as when he is young and running on pasture. Under such conditions, it is possible to secure 15 pounds of gain for each bushel of grain fed. During the spring, summer, and early fall months from one-half to three-fourths of a full feed of grain will be sufficient for hogs running on pasture.

Little Weather Prophets.

If you go out on a summer morning and find the ants busily engaged in clearing out their nests and dragging the sand and bits of earth to the surface, you may be sure, no matter how cloudy it is, that there will be no rain that day, and possibly for several days. If, however, in the afternoon you see the ants hurrying back to their nests, and the sentinels hunting up the stragglers and urging them to go home, you may be certain that there will be rain that afternoon or night. How the ants know we have no idea, but they do know.

Canning and Evaporating Plants.

EDITOR PECK:—Since coming to Newville, many friends who know of the favorable fruit conditions found in the interior parts of Fulton county, have asked why canning and evaporating plants have not been established, green products reduced to marketable form, stored, and, at a convenient time, taken to shipping points?

Since the foregoing is along the line of argument frequently used by the NEWS, I thought it might encourage the business men of the County to know that others see this matter in the same light.

The farmers of hilly sections of your county would heartily agree to support local canning and evaporating plants, provided, they be assured of permanency, and "disinterested" management, in other words, cut out all "axe grinding."

These farmers—many of them—know that better use should be made of those old hills; but, unless you get that County Agent, men who have time and talent to promote such things will have to take the initiative in hand. Then watch the bank deposits grow!
